NEXT GOVERNOR OF STATE

Will Be in Scranton Today with Many Prominent Republicans.

THE MEETINGS ARRANGED FOR

Big Demonstration at Night Will Be Held in the Frothingham and the Armory—Meetings for the Remainder of the Week.

Interest in the campaign will be given a great impetus today by the presence in the city of General Daniel H. Hastings, the next governor of Pennsylvania, and the distinguished gentlemen who are now making a tour of the state with him. Among them are Charles Emory Smith, General Latta, Charles F. Starbuck, W. T. Shaffer, Thomas V. Cooper, George Graham and Major Everett Warren.

The party will arrive at the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western station from Manunka Chuk at 1.07 in the afternoon and be met by Bauer's band and a delegation of citizens, who will escort the visitors to the Wyoming.

After dinner the party will proceed in carriages to Providence, where a mass meeting has been arranged at the square for 3.30 o'clock. At the conclusion of the meeting the visitors will be driven to Hyde Park, where an open-air meeting will be held at Price street and Main avenue.

The closing of the afternoon will be presided over by Mayor William L. Connell, who will introduce the speakers. Among those expected to occupy carriages, in addition to those already named, will be Hon. John Russell Young, president of the Union league of Philadelphia and Minister to China under the Grant administration; ex-Governor N. McCain, managing editor of the Philadelphia Press. The visitors will be entertained at luncheon by Major Warren.

After supper the visitors will visit the South Side and General Hastings will deliver a short address at Willow street and Pittston avenue.

The evening meetings. These meetings will be held preliminary to the monster demonstration of the evening. The Frothingham and the Armory have been secured and General Hastings will speak at both places.

His principal speech will be in all probability, delivered in the Armory, which in the past has resounded with the eloquence of McKinley and other distinguished Republicans who have won undying fame for themselves. No tickets will be issued for these meetings.

Besides the addresses that General Hastings will deliver at these evening meetings, Charles Emory Smith, the editor of the Philadelphia Press, and other eloquent speakers will be heard. It is not often that Scrantonians have an opportunity to hear addresses from such a galaxy of shining lights in the political world at a single meeting and there is no doubt but that both the Frothingham and the Armory will be crowded.

The citizens of the Pioneer and Maple cities are making extensive arrangements to give the next governor a fitting reception. During the remainder of this week after tonight mass meetings will be held in all parts of the county. Tomorrow night there will be meetings at the church where kindly shown their interest and appreciation by putting in electric lights, re-papered and painted the walls, woodwork and furniture. The members are about to cover the floors with a new carpet and when it is finished will present as neat an appearance as any society room in the city.

The program for Monday night consists of orations by E. S. Williams and J. W. Browning, and parliamentary practice by the members.

A WORTHY ORGANIZATION.

Rooms of Vesper Literary Society to Be Beautified.

The Vesper Literary association of the Penn Avenue Baptist church was organized thirteen years ago and contrary to the history of most literary organizations, its whole career has been one of constant activity. The place it holds in the estimation of professional and business men of Scranton is an enviable one, having been the stepping stone of many to positions of usefulness in public and private life.

There is a desire on the part of the members to make the society even more active than at any time in its past history. To this end the trustees of the church have kindly shown their interest and appreciation by putting in electric lights, re-papered and painted the walls, woodwork and furniture. The members are about to cover the floors with a new carpet and when it is finished will present as neat an appearance as any society room in the city.

SUPPORTING A GOOD CAUSE.

An Excellent Programme for the Benefit of Home for the Friendless.

Arrangements have been made whereby a grand treat will be afforded the public on Nov. 3, when a grand concert will be held in the Young Men's Christian Association hall in aid of the Home for the Friendless.

Miss Nina Rathbone, the well known soprano, will render selections from standard operas. Miss Rathbone has a wide experience and a high reputation and her appearance will be a token for first class music.

Miss Bailey, another artist, has been highly recommended by Carl Reinecke, M. Watzdorf and other musical authorities and upon her appearance before the king of Saxony was the recipient of well earned laurels.

The excellent list of artists and the worthy object for which the concert is organized should secure a full attendance.

Workingmen, greet the next governor, General Daniel H. Hastings, at the armory or the Frothingham tonight. He will speak at both places; but at the armory first.

WOMEN'S GUILD OF ST. DAVID'S

Annual Meeting for Election of Officers to Be Held on Wednesday.

The ladies comprising the Women's Guild of St. David's church will meet at the school room on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock for a review of the past year's work and to elect officers for the coming year. Mrs. Shellee as president; Mrs. Dorsey, secretary, and Mrs. Kern, treasurer, have been competent officials in the past and excellent work has been accomplished by the Guild.

The ladies have issued pressing invitations from time to time for an increased attendance, and as there is ample room for increased work all are cordially invited to Wednesday's meeting.

NOT IN POLITE SOCIETY.

Patrick and Mary Burke in No Condition for Evening Calls.

Saturday night the residents of Oak street were thrown into excitement by a small-sized family riot. Patrick and Mary Burke, while in a drunken condition, had visited the house of the elder Burke and when shown the door retaliated by throwing stones at the house and holding a noisy pow-wow in the street.

Young Burke resisted the efforts made to arrest him, but was finally landed in the North End police station by Lieutenant Spellman and Patrolman Mills. Mrs. Burke followed and abused the officers. In police court the pair were sentenced to thirty days in jail in default of fines of $10 each.

tended by many of the firemen who are not members. Eleven dresses were made by Chief Ferber, Chairman Thomas P. Noone, ex-Chief C. W. Rosier, P. J. Hickey, of the Century Hose company, Assistant Chief George Suddam, R. A. Stinrell, of the General Phineas, and Miles Blessecker.

The tenor of their remarks ran along the line of advocacy, the joining of the association by all firemen of the city. The purposes of the association are praiseworthy; members in distress are assisted and the dues are light, 10 cents a week.

Chief Ferber spoke forcibly and urged upon every fireman to become a member. He set an example to all present by joining and several followed. When business connected with the arrangements for the ball was over, a social session was called in order and singing and music made the time pass lightly until adjournment at 11 o'clock.

The hero of Johnstown, General Daniel H. Hastings, deserves an immense audience at the armory and also at the Frothingham tonight. Make these meetings rousers in every sense.

SUIT OVER COAL LEASES.

The Silver Creek Mining Company Takes Action Against a Director and an Employee of the Company to Recover Coal Property Which It Is Alleged They Leased in Their Own Names, Instead of in the Company's Name.

In court before Judge Gunster Saturday the Silver Creek Mining company filed a bill in equity against W. W. Patterson, David E. Taylor and J. Alton Davis, and asked the court to restrain these gentlemen from making any sale or transfer, other than to the Silver Creek Mining company, of the leases held in their names to a breaker and a certain tract of coal land in St. Clair, Schuylkill county, and also from operating said breaker.

In the bill of complaint and information sworn to by William H. Brown, president, and George W. Deeths and William S. Boyd, Jr., directors of the company, it is stated that David E. Taylor is a director and director, and W. W. Patterson an employee of the company. President William H. Taylor of the Silver Creek Mining company employed Mr. Patterson to arrange for the lease by the company of several tracts of coal land in and about St. Clair, Mr. Taylor, for the Silver Creek Mining company, further employed Mr. Patterson to arrange for the leasing or purchasing by the company of a breaker and coal lands from the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, and also to arrange for the leasing of a certain tract of coal land lying between the breaker and the company's other lands.

The bill alleges that on Feb. 6, 1894, a written agreement with Mr. Patterson was drawn up in part to this effect: Mr. Taylor, on account of ill health, left for Europe on June 30. When he returned, Sept. 16, it is alleged he found that Mr. Patterson had in the meantime leased the Eap tract, not in the name of the complainant company, but in his own name and that of David E. Taylor, and further that this had endeavored to secure for the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company's breaker adjoining, in the name of D. E. Taylor and W. W. Patterson. Subsequently, it is alleged, the petitioners' best knowledge and belief, that they let Mr. Davis into the arrangement. The company holds that the lease to the Eap tract rightfully belongs to it, and they wish the defendants restrained from mining coal in the Eap tract or operating the breaker until such time as the ownership of the property can be properly determined. A preliminary injunction was granted and made returnable next Thursday.

Mr. Davis, when questioned as to his connection with the suit, disclaimed having any personal interest in the lease.

STUDYING THE FLOWERS.

Botany Class of St. Cecilia's Academy Visits Noy Aug Falls.

Saturday afternoon 100 pupils of the Botany class of St. Cecilia's academy went to Noy Aug falls and devoted a pleasure trip to profit by gathering specimens of native plants. Forty students of the academy accompanied the class.

A collection of arbutus, grasses and wild ferns was gathered for the herbarium of the academy. Many rare species of plants were picked and some herbs that are becoming extinct in this region were treasured as curios.

The class had a most pleasant afternoon and learned much from the actual study of plants in their native wildness.

RESCUE THE PERISHING

Such Is the Motto of a Band of Noble Women in Scranton.

WORK OF FLORENCE MISSION

Record of the Year by Mrs. Swan—Three Hundred Calls at Houses of Ill-Fame. Forty-Five Misguided Women Entertained at Home.

The first annual meeting of the supporters of the Florence Crittenton mission was held on Saturday afternoon at the Young Woman's Christian association rooms. A large number of those interested in the work were present. The various reports of officers were read and general satisfaction expressed with the progress of the work during the first year.

Mrs. Frances B. Swan, the president of the mission, in her report, said that the object of the mission had been misunderstood by some people, and explained that in the constitution it was stated that the object of the mission is the establishment, support and management of an institution for the purpose of rescuing and encouraging fallen women of every creed, nationality and color, and elevating them to a Christian womanhood, and for the further purpose of protecting women from falling into the hands of designing and unprincipled persons. The home was a haven to those who desired to escape from a life of sin, and to whom every door is closed, even the door of their childhood homes. In conclusion Mrs. Swan said: "If Christian people could only realize the alluring and almost irresistible temptations that surround the young girls living in Christless and poverty-stricken homes, with a large percentage of them motherless, would they be so ready to point the finger of scorn? It is human nature to err, but not to forgive. God alone seems to comprehend the fact that the sin of the fallen woman is no greater than other sins which are committed and condoned by humanity at large. It is because we believe that the better nature can be cultivated, the law of heredity overcome by education and the baser tendencies destroyed, that we go steadily on in the work of helping the unfortunate into better and nobler lives.

It is Open to All. "Almost every type of human kind have found entrance to our Home, and though in some individual cases, faith and patience have been almost lost sight of, yet as we look back upon the year's work, we have been permitted to witness wonderful results. We have seen a few of our girls married and settled in homes of their own, others have come to us sick in body and at heart, and we have been permitted to witness the case of one inmate rescued from one of the lowest dens of iniquity in the city and who died a peaceful and Christian death in the Home.

Mrs. Saxton, the matron, also read a report from which it appeared that forty-five misguided women had been entertained at the home. One girl who received chivalrous tobacco, drank hard, smoked, was addicted to swearing and was a sad case of depravity. After remaining at the home some time she became entirely changed and is now married to a sober man who makes an excellent husband and she, in turn, makes a very creditable wife. Three girls have been married and are in comfortable and happy circumstances and attribute their changed fortunes to the work of the mission. Others have joined the local churches. Mrs. Saxton made an interesting statement as to the open-air meetings in the courts and alleys of the city and testified to the kindness of the occupants of the houses in assisting at the meetings. Three hundred calls had been made at houses of ill repute in the city and in only one had admission been refused.

Mrs. J. M. E. Gault, of the committee of the jail work, in which she tendered the thanks of the committee to Attorney Soper for his assistance in legal matters.

Remarks of Rev. George E. Guild. Rev. George E. Guild, of Providence, who was the only clergyman present, spoke eloquently of the work of the institution and claimed further financial support on its behalf. The meeting was highly gratifying with the fruitful results of the year's work and it was urged that further support should be liberally given to an institution, where such noble work has been accomplished. Mrs. Saxton, the matron, and Miss Johnson, the assistant matron, were highly complimented on the excellent and faithful manner in which they had performed their duties.

The new officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. H. M. Bookstaver; vice presidents, Mrs. H. M. Boies and Mrs. Thayer; managers, Mrs. W. F. Hallstead, Mrs. E. G. Coursen, Miss A. K. Sanderson, Mrs. Thomas Dickson, Mrs. Charles F. Manness, Mrs. Reese G. Brooks, Mrs. Frances B. Swan, Mrs. William H. Taylor and Mrs. F. W. Mason; recording secretary, Mrs. Charles H. Von Storch; treasurer, Mrs. William H. Taylor; matron, Mrs.
